So, what kind of services does Corporate Clearance offer? Our computer purchasing services are comprehensive and tailored to meet your needs, quick removal, data erasure and asset tag removal. Corporate Clearance will buy, sell and re-market your surplus equipment. Our services are supported with fair prices and fast removal for your surplus computer assets.

What if we only have a small list of equipment? We typically purchase large quantities. Our clients include small venture funded start-ups to large FTSE 100 firms and every size of company in between. Corporate Clearance is dedicated to providing computer re-marketing services to serve businesses removing computer equipment, selling surplus or excess equipment, winding down operations or simply cleaning their asset lists.

What do Corporate Clearance typically buy? We buy any equipment that might be found purchased by an IT department: Routers, switches, servers, printers, firewalls, desktops, laptops, etc. Corporate Clearance maintains experience in a wide range of equipment and can quickly price the equipment and determine what we can offer.

Corporate Clearance buy second user and redundant computer equipment. Specializing in second user computers, PC's, laptops, notebooks, printers, servers and peripherals. We turn second user IT into company capital.

Founded in response to ever-increasing amounts of redundant computer hardware, most of the people who work in our company have a number of years experience in the computer industry, including areas such as Data-Protection. With customers that include Local Authorities, Corporate customers and Charities, we never underestimate the importance of the security of licensed software and customer data on systems passed to us for resale. We use industry leading 'data-wiping' software, rendering recovery of previous data 100% impossible.
