Our asset recovery service gives you access to a worldwide IT brokerage network that means after assessing your equipment we can generate a price for you based on the recoverable revenue of your equipment that although obsolete may still have a value on the second hand market or when broken for spare parts.

This route is not only economically the best way to dispose of equipment as it gives you a financial return on your obsolete computer equipment it is also the best way environmentally as it means your equipment is not going to landfill but is actually being reused.

Prolonging the life of your equipment delays it from making any environmental impact as waste.

We are Environment Agency licensed and have WEEE exemption as a recycler and refurbisher of computer and electronic equipment.

Our services include:

- Assessment and evaluation of equipment for best disposal route to minimise disposal costs and environmental impact and maximise recovery value.
- Deinstallation of IT and communications equipment on site.
- Secure Data Erasing using Blancco software for hard disks or physical destruction of items as required

Collections of equipment can be made to suit your schedule.

If required we can install storage cages on site and set dates for regular collections, or collection can be arranged as and when your storage cage is full.

Special Projects

For large volumes of equipment such as from a data centre we will work with you to produce a special projects schedule detailing working methods for health and safety, data security practices and a time frame for completion

Where we can find no reuse option for your equipment we break it down into different waste streams for recycling. Via these routes of reuse and recycle we send almost nothing to landfill and you can be sure that you are disposing of your electronic waste in the most environmental and economical way possible.
